

Elsevier provisions for text and datamining on ScienceDirect or other products – academic internal research purposes only:

You may, subject to the use restrictions set out below, for academic research purposes only:

- text and data mine the ScienceDirect dataset via the API and load and integrate the results (the TDM Output) on your internal system for access by authorized users; and
- share the TDM Output externally, subject to the following notice:

© Some rights reserved. This work permits academic research purposes only, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

Upon completion of the relevant text and data mining project, you will immediately and permanently delete all copies (including back-ups or otherwise) of the ScienceDirect dataset, but you may retain a copy of the TDM Output for academic research purposes subject to the terms and conditions as set out herein.

The ScienceDirect dataset and any TDM Output may be accessed, processed, or hosted by third-party vendors retained by you only with the express written permission of Elsevier and solely for the purposes as set out herein. You will ensure that the third-party vendor will not ingest the ScienceDirect dataset for any other reasons as defined herein, will keep such ScienceDirect dataset secure in accordance with the terms set out herein, and will have no right or ability to use the ScienceDirect dataset in any other product or service offering. You shall ensure that the third-party vendor shall immediately delete the ScienceDirect dataset and TDM Output from its servers upon termination or expiration of the underlying agreement between you and Elsevier or, if earlier, the agreement between you and the third-party vendor.

The Information Security Requirements and Audit Rights set out in Schedule 1 of the API Service Agreement between You and Elsevier will apply. In addition, and subject to the rights granted in the API Service Agreement and the agreement between Elsevier and Your institution, company or organization, upon termination, You will promptly and permanently delete all copies (including back-up copies) of the Elsevier product and document the same to Elsevier's reasonable satisfaction.

TDM restrictions

You and the authorized users may not create any derivative work (including TDM Output) in a way that would compete with or have the potential to substitute and/or replicate and/or reverse engineer back to any existing Elsevier products, services and/or solutions including a substantial part thereof or otherwise commercially use or allow commercial use of the derivative work (including TDM Output).